SMITH BYRD. ANNOUNCEMENTS.

We are authorized to announce Philip C. Swab, of Claiborne County, as a candidate for delegate to represent the First Congressional District in the Republican National Convention to be held in St. Louis, June 16, 1896.

Wor is me.

Who had the demijohns in that upper room?

HAD I but served my party as 1 served myself, it had not now left me comfortless.

The upper dog in the fight. We want to especially thank the friends of Mr. Brownlow who stood by him so loyally and worked for him so faithfully in the primary election last Saturday. One and all did yeoman service for the man of their choice. To E. A. Shipley, who had charge of Mr Brownlow's campaign in this county, too much credit can not be given. From the day he undertook the work he has not hesitated to make any sacrifice to reach the end desired. He has written hundreds of letters, traveled miles after miles, answered thousands of questions, and made hosts of friends for Mr. Brownlow and for himself by his uniform courtesy and gentlemanly bearing. To the other willing workers we extend our warmest thanks for their steadfast, earnest and unflinching zeal in Mr. Brownlow's cause. Early and late, rain or shine, no matter when, where nor under what circumstances, all have been ready to respond to any demand that was made upon them. It is not necessary that we should say that for this interest shown Mr. Brownlow is profoundly grateful, but we feel assured that we are safe in saying that it will not be forgotten by him, but will only the more closely cement the ties that bind Mr. Brownlow to allnot alone his neighbors and intimate personal friends-but the entire people of the First Congressional District. To the stalwart friends in Johnson City we are deeply indebted for their heroic efforts in the face of apparently insurmountable obstacles, and the victory they gained is most comforting to one and all who assisted in Mr. Brownlow's triumph. All honor to the workers of the Ninth District. To the colored people of Jonesboro who so faithfully stood by Mr. Brownlow a special word of thanks is due. Nothwithstanding the boasts of the Milburn men that they would "buy the colored vote in a body," but three colored voters were bought, and they are feeling very lonesome now. Better work was never seen done at any election in Jonesboro than was done by the colored men here last Saturday. In doing what they did for Mr. Brownlow they felt and said that they knew their labors would be appreciated, and that in him they had a friend on whom they could rely at all evil against the choice of the people.

It is reported that one of the recent Milburn strikers in this county has declared that he will vote the Democratic ticket next fall. We are requested by members of that party to ask that he keep quiet about it.

THE vote polled last Saturday was one of the largest ever cast in this Congressional district-21,602, and shows beyond any doubt that the people were deeply interested as to their choice for Congressman.

It is rather pleasing to Mr. Brownlow and his friends to read the vote he received at the homes of his opponents. For instance, in Newport, the home of Mr. Anderson Mr. Brownlow receieved 108 votes and Mr. Anderson 216. In Greeneville, Mr. Milburn's home, Mr. Brownlow got 189 and Mil-

The Editor.

An editor, however humble his gifts, soon learns-what some of his correspondents seem to find it difficult to understand-that a periodical is not an eleemosynary institution-nor a mutual admiration society; that it can not safely be conducted on motives of friendship or philanthropy; that it is "run" for the benefit of its owners and its readers, and only incidentally for that of contributors. Writers exist for public, not the public for the writers; the writer is entitled to recognition and reward only so far as he supplies matter likely to be attractive or profitable to the public. The magazine could not go on without contributions. but no particular contributor is essential to it, for others will come forward to take his place. Personal considerations ought to weigh very lightly with A SOUTH DAKOTA editor says he has an editor. To accept an article out of two subscribers who frequently get kindness, fear or favor, simply to oblige full, and every time they are in that condition they come in and pay a year in advance on subscription. BROWNLOW TRIUMPHANT.

The bitter struggle is ended. The people have spoken. Their verdict is recorded, and from that verdict, as far as the Republican party is concerned, there can be no appeal.
